The riders in a race do not stop short when they reach the goal. There is a little finishing canter before coming to a standstill. There is time to hear the kind voice of friends and to say to one's self: "The work is done." But just as one says that the answer comes: "The race is over but the work never is done while the power to work remains." The canter that brings you to a standstill need not be only coming to rest. It cannot be, while you still live. For to live is to function. That is all there is in living.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr.

The call to the service of the Gospel is of incalculable importance. It concerns the drama of the Salvation of the world. The gift of a vocation is a secret of God, but let it not be cowardice, sloth, pusillanimity, deafness or impurity, that deprive it of youthful souls whom the thought of God would have made pure and strong for the ministry of his kingdom.

Education

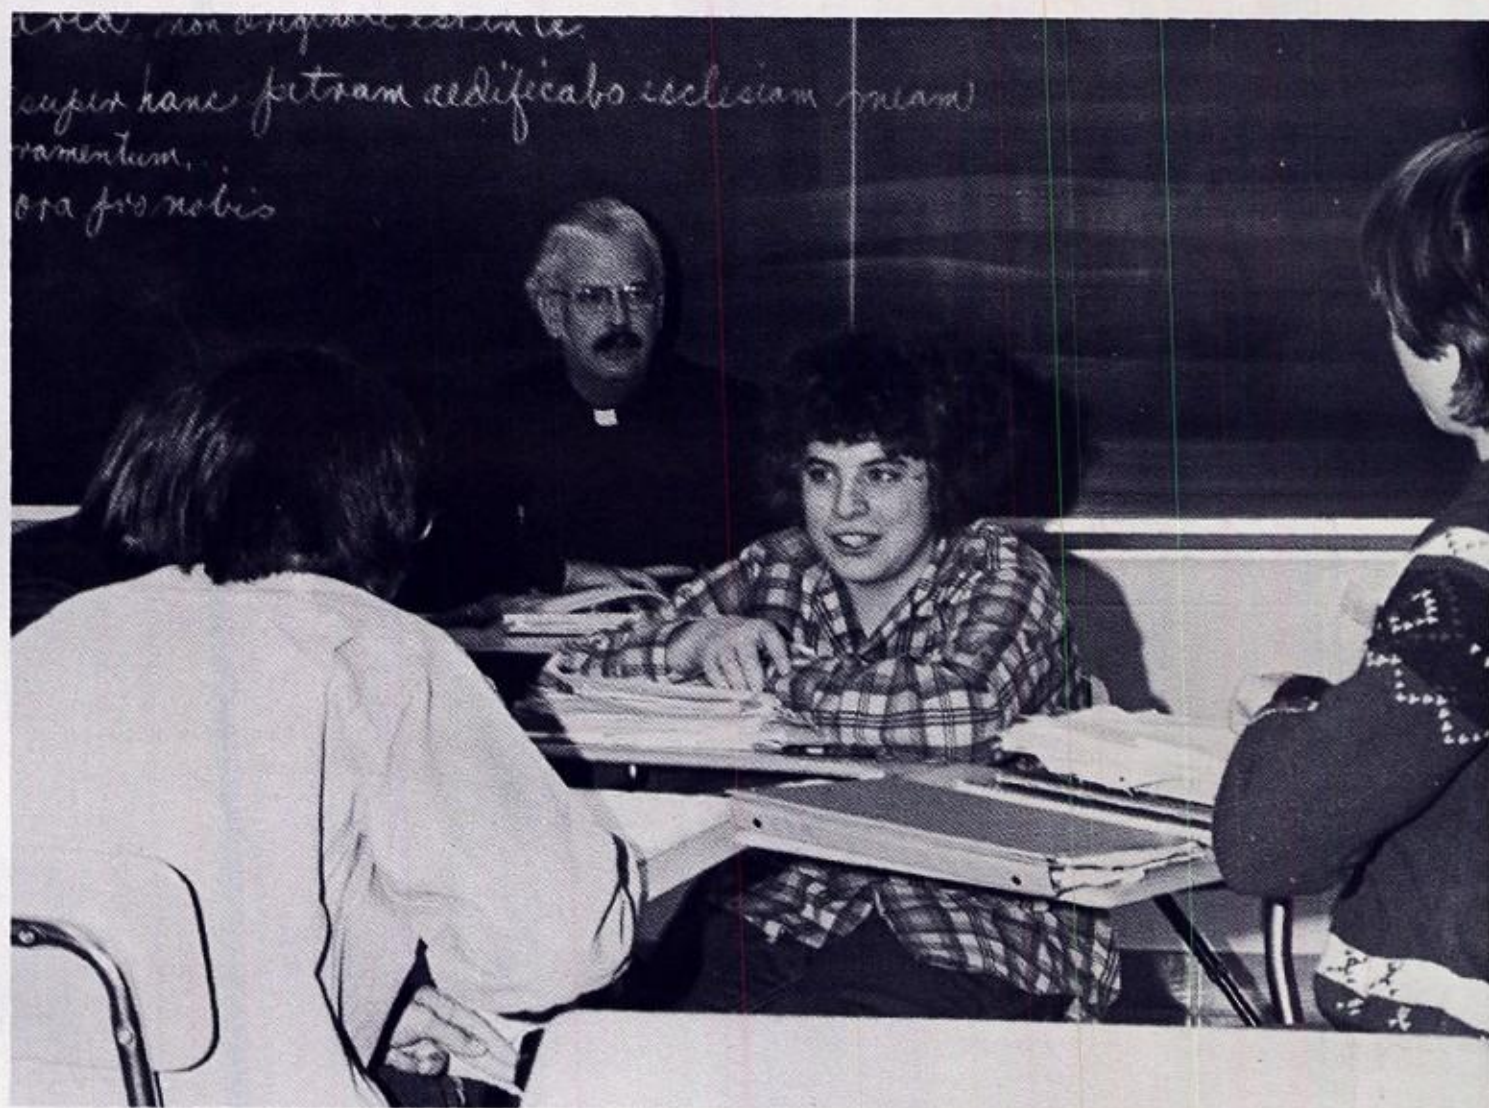

It's Just Religion

The religion department offered a new course this year, entitled "Seeking A Just Society," taught by Fr. Steffen. The course investigated such problems as the poor, the world food crisis, injustices in government and the plight of the migrant workers. The class first became familiar with the biblical precepts of justice, then read church documents concerning the subject. Practical familiarity was gained through reading "The Catholic Worker" and writing letters to congressmen.

Courses offered again this year were World Religions, also taught by Fr. Steffen; The Priesthood and Marriage, taught by Frs. Baker and Ken Klink; and Fr. Kertz' morality course. Fr. Kertz and Fr. Jones also taught the freshman and sophomore religion courses.

Junior English class is never dull with the juniors constantly hassling the indomitable Fr. Ken Klink.

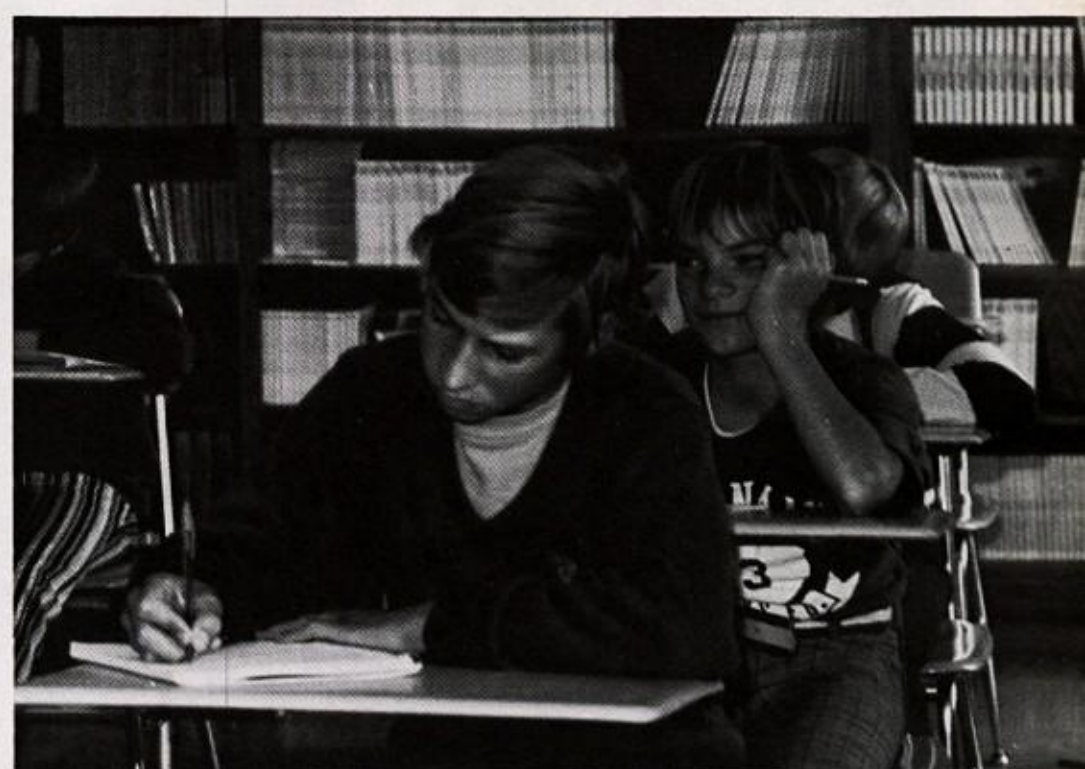

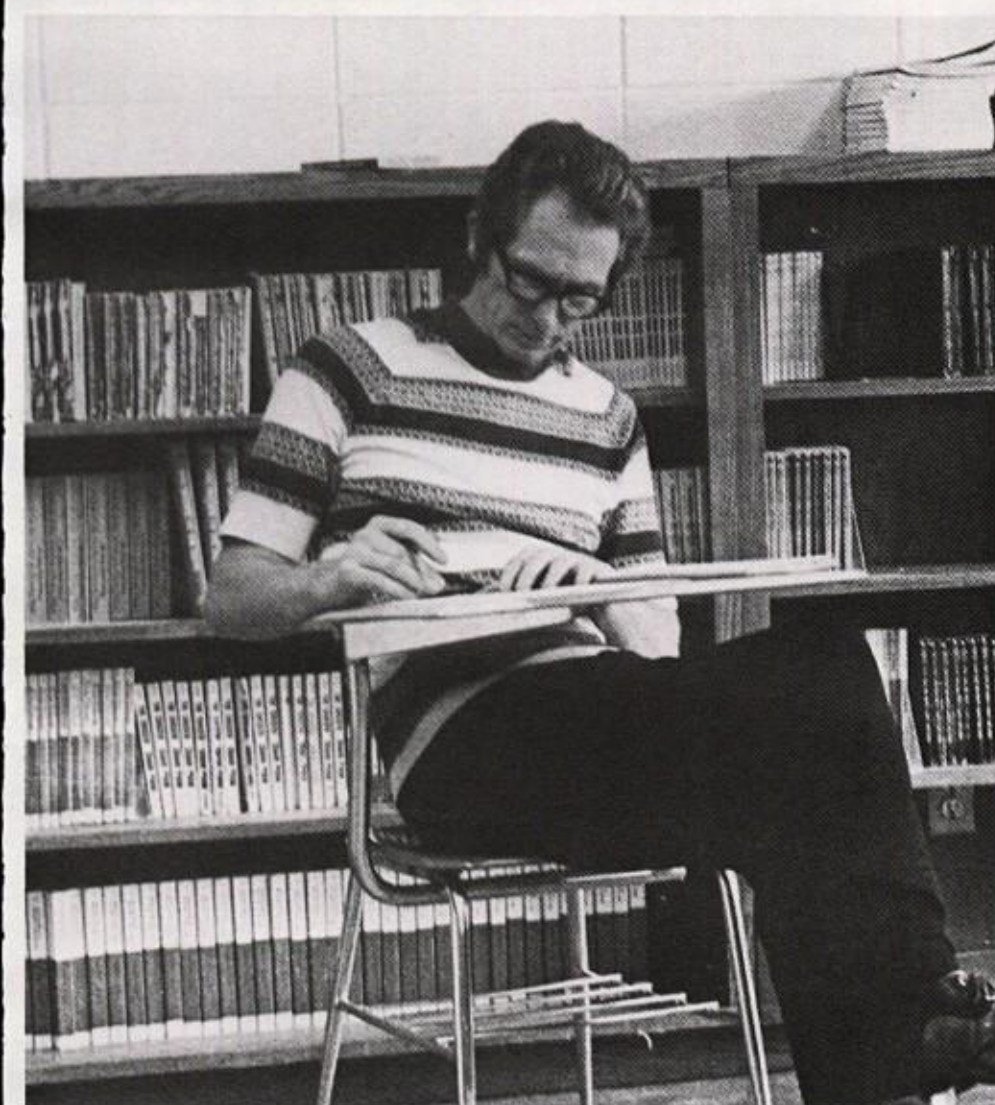

Mentors Meliorate With Manipulation

The English department underwent extensive internal reconstruction this year following several personnel changes. Mr. Stauffacher, in addition to continuing his Leisure Reading and Science Fiction courses, instructed the sophomores in speech class to fill the void left by Sister Monica's departure.

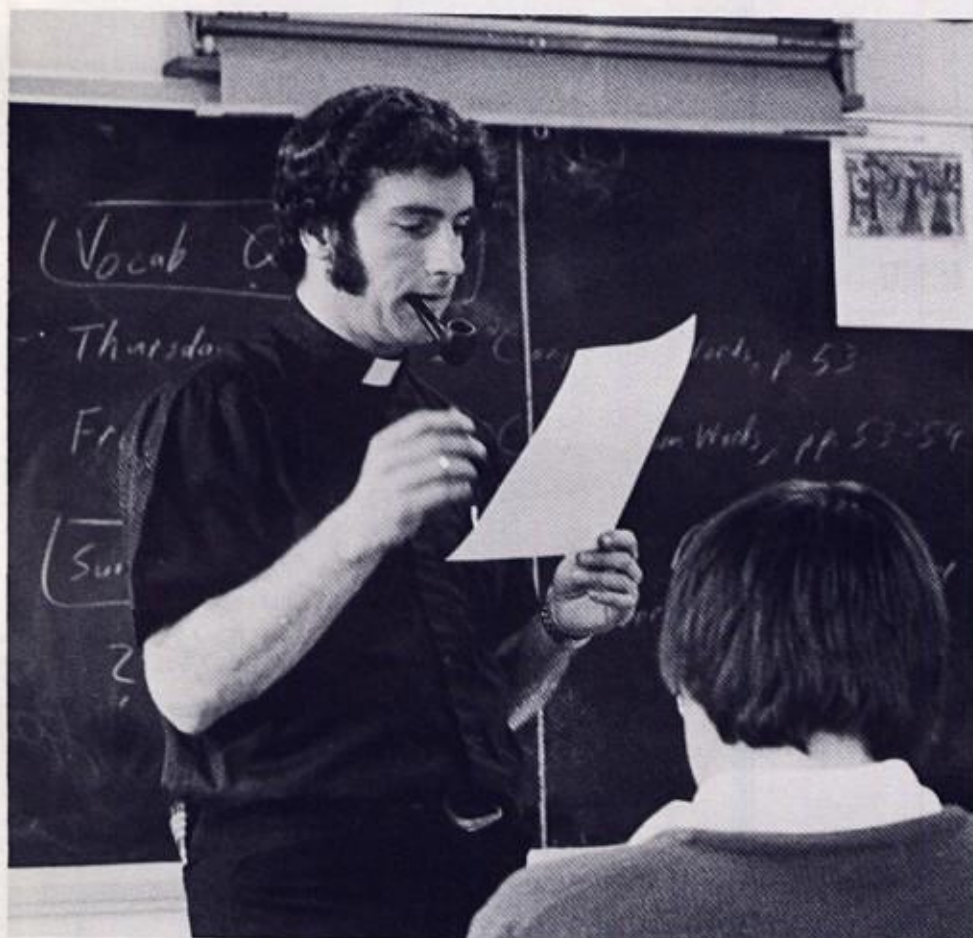

Fr. Ken Klink took over the junior English position vacated by Mr. Stauffacher. He also continued his Drama and American Prose courses. First year faculty member Mr. Wagner then took over the freshman and sophomore teaching positions vacated by Fr. Ken Klink and Sister Monica.

Modern Language Supersedes Latin

Soc et tuum - that's the basic philosophy of the Holy Name language department. However, beginning this year, more emphasis was placed on the modern languages, rather than Latin. Instead of offering Latin on the freshman and sophomore levels, German and Spanish became available. This makes it possible for an individual to complete four years of a modern language, rather than Latin.

Mr. Lynn Bailey, in his first year as German professor, brought with him extensive historical knowledge and far reaching familiarity with present day Austria and Germany to his class. Fr. Jones was the new Latin III and IV professor. In addition to wrestling with Vergil, the students attended a Latin contest in Milwaukee.

▲ Steve Wachowiak was the only student to take Latin IV with Fr. Jones.

▲ Fr. Jones signs in the HN Latin team at Milwaukee Custer High School.

History: The Past Elucidates Today

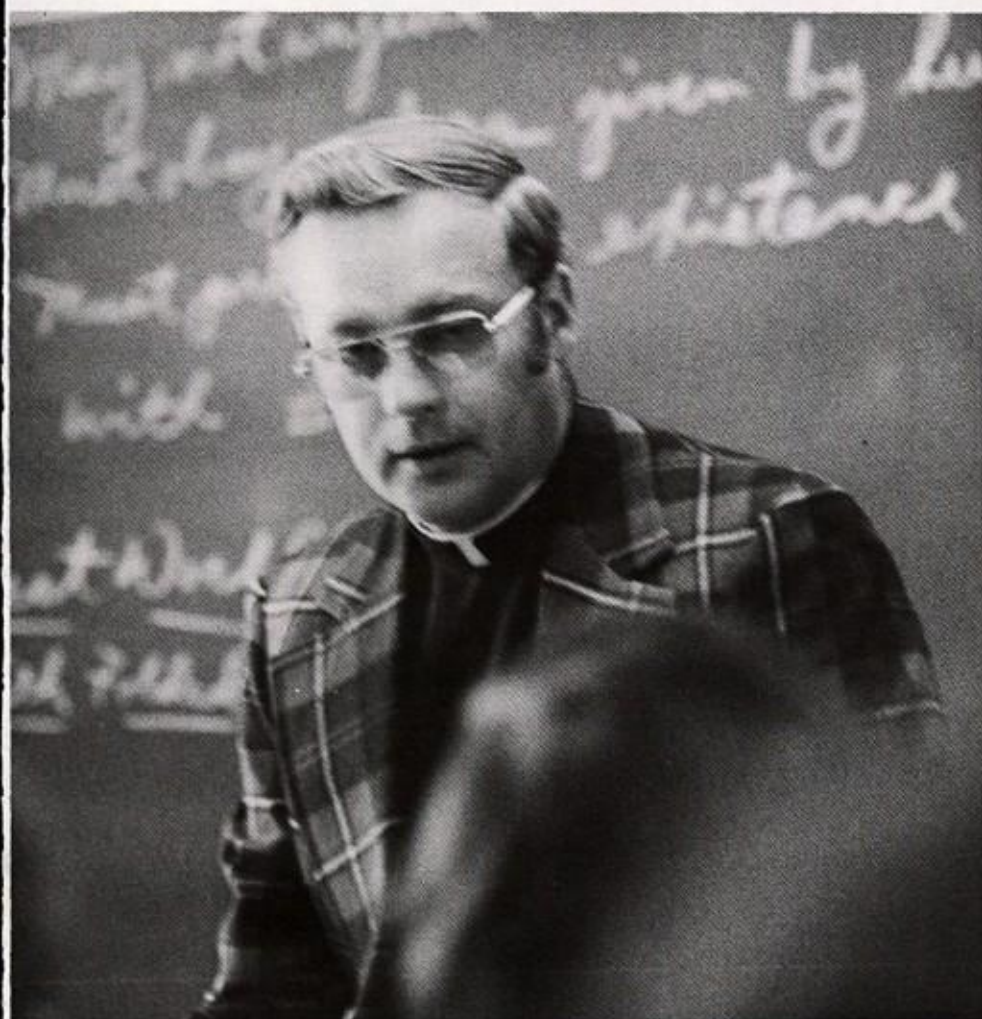

Martin Marty once said, "The problem of youth today is that they forgot to read the minutes of the last meeting." Frs. Hughes and Grubba provided protection against this situation at Holy Name. In World History, Fr. Hughes led the freshmen through ancient civilization, the Crusades and the Dark Ages, the Renaissance and to the World Wars. In History II, he utilized simulation games and analyzations of current events to help the seniors understand societal trends. Fr. Grubba encompassed the scope of American History through multitudinous handouts, lectures and simulation games of the Civil War and the stock market crash of 1929.

Del Scanlon assiduously records Fr. Hughes' brilliant lecture.

Math Leads to Logical Thinking

Ever wonder what your chances of being dealt nothing in a poker game were? Or how many different combinations can be derived from the letters in the word Zimmerman? Seniors learned how to answer these and other more practical questions in Fr. Zimmerman's new statistics and probability course. Fr. Zimmerman also taught a new course entitled "Analysis of the Elementary Function," which consisted mainly of pre-calculus.

In addition to these courses, Fr. Zimmerman instilled the basic principles of algebra in the freshmen, and instructed juniors in advanced techniques such as matrix algebra and the binomial theorem. Fr. Del taught geometry to the sophomores. And by the way, your chances of receiving nothing in a poker hand are approximately one-half, .5012; there are 60,480 different ways of arranging the letters in the word Zimmerman.

Scientists Learn to Observe Singly

Striving to implement his philosophy that the success of the learning process relies heavily on the individual, Mr. Gerber stressed labs, class reports, and readings from Scientific American in his science, biology and chemistry courses this year.

A new offering this year was Advanced Biology, which was divided into two parts, a botany section and a zoology section. The class investigated such things as the effect of hormones on the growth of plants, the internal organs and structure of the fetal pig, and the embryological development of the chick. This and other lab work was supplemented by readings from Scientific American, which were discussed in class.

Artists Express Moods Creatively

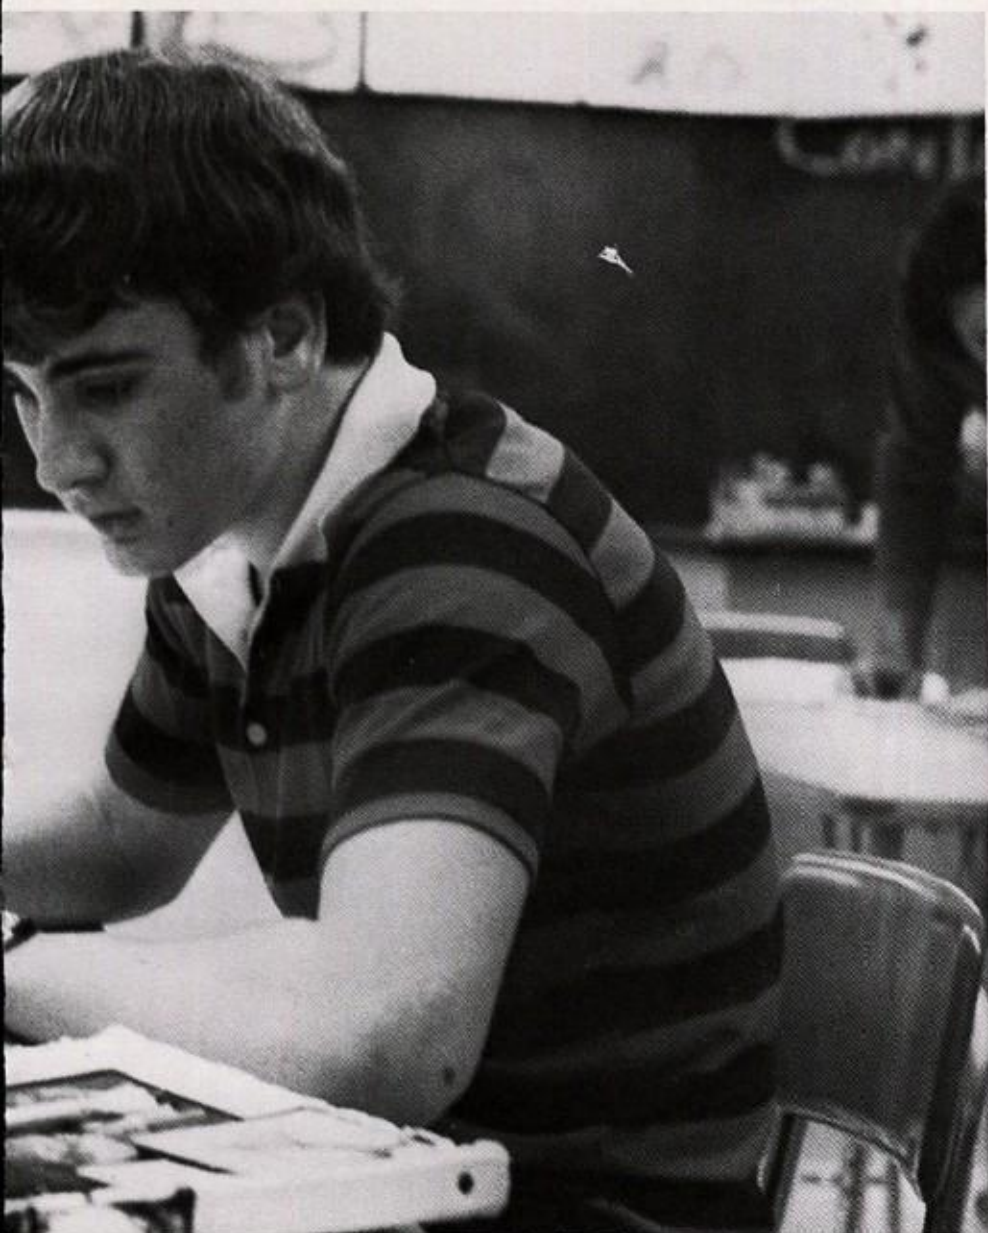

The art room was the scene of many and varied artistic endeavors ranging from sculpture to still life portraits. Mr. Donnelly gave his students free rein, encouraging creativity and individuality while guiding his students to the completion of their projects. Mr. Donnelly attempted to instill in his students the principle that their artwork must be an expression of their personality and mood.

Musicians Make Mellifluous Melodies

An expanded music program became reality this year under the guidance of Mr. Phillips, Fr. Seipp and Mrs. Chryst. Band was largely an independent activity, although the musicians collaborated on music for special events such as the Christmas and Palm Sunday masses. An important feature of the curriculum was the freshman program, in which each freshman began playing a selected instrument.

The chorus, under the direction of Father Seipp, added excitement and inspiration to the daily and special masses. When Mr. Phillips took over, the chorus culminated their performances for the year with a Hallelujah mass, complete with drums and guitar.

Pupils Lick the Practical Tricks

Driving a car, writing a check, exercise - the ordinary, mundane activities of life, but skills necessary to master in today's world. Mr. Downs, Mr. Stauffacher, Mr. Pauley and Mrs. Martin strove to prepare their students to meet the practical needs of today's society.

Mrs. Martin also offered a one semester course in notehand. This method of taking notes, similar to shorthand, enables the student to record more information in less time and space than by conventional writing, thus being a valuable aid in many classroom situations.

Aerial Circus Has Up and Down Season

Holy Name varsity football sported a new look in 1975, featuring a bag full of trick plays and the shotgun offense. More often than not, however, this aerial circus was shot down by the opposition, whose defense caused many interceptions. But when everything meshed perfectly the results were fun to see, as in the homecoming win against Juda.

Holy Name won two and lost seven games, including a non-conference defeat to Weston. Bob Kleifgen was named to the all-conference team at safety, while Kevin Kessler and Mark Kalina received honorable mention. With the loss of only these three seniors, a strong nucleus is left for 1976.

The JV football team achieved the distinction of having the most wins any JV football team has ever recorded, matching last year's record of two wins and five losses. The season was highlighted by a first place finish at the Charger Invitational, hosting the annual USTFF meet and the prestigious Al-Hi relays, camping out before the Roncalli Invitational, and finishing second at the state meet.

Shooters Provide Winter Excitement

There's nothing more cozy on a frigid Friday evening in January than Holy Name's crackerbox gymnasium, lined on all four sides by people who come from far and near to watch HN basketball. This year the fans usually got their money's worth, even if Holy Name came out on the losing end of a score. The team's uniqueness came in many forms: Bob Kleifgen with a lightning quick drive to the basket; Mark Kalina climbing ladders for rebounds; Bob Brill gunning and connecting from far outside, or perhaps Kevin Kessler erupting into eighteen point performances. Sometimes everything meshed, like clockwork, as against Blackhawk. Holy Name defeated the league leaders by ten points in a superlative effort. Victories over archrival QAHS highlighted the season, which ended on a disappointing note against Onalaska Lutheran.

Seasoned JV's Ready for Varsity

Mr. Pauley's JV's suffered uncomfortably through a dismal season, compiling a 6-12 record. The season was a range of rare peaks and many valleys. The peak occurred when the JV's defeated Brodhead, who had shellacked our JV's in an earlier encounter. The valleys can be considered as sacrifice of perhaps a win in favor of gaining experience. Mike Leahy paced the team in scoring and Ron Lins occasionally dropped in from the varsity squad to lend a hand.

Mr. Wagner's program emphasized the basics of basketball and development of stamina; thus, much of practice was spent doing drills and taking the daily mile run. The work began paying off as scores drew closer and closer, culminating in a three game winning streak which included victories over the JV reserves, Monticello, and Belleville. Monticello had previously beaten the freshmen by twenty-one points. Hopefully this steady improvement will continue during the class of 79's junior varsity and varsity seasons.

Trackmen Rely on Individual Talent

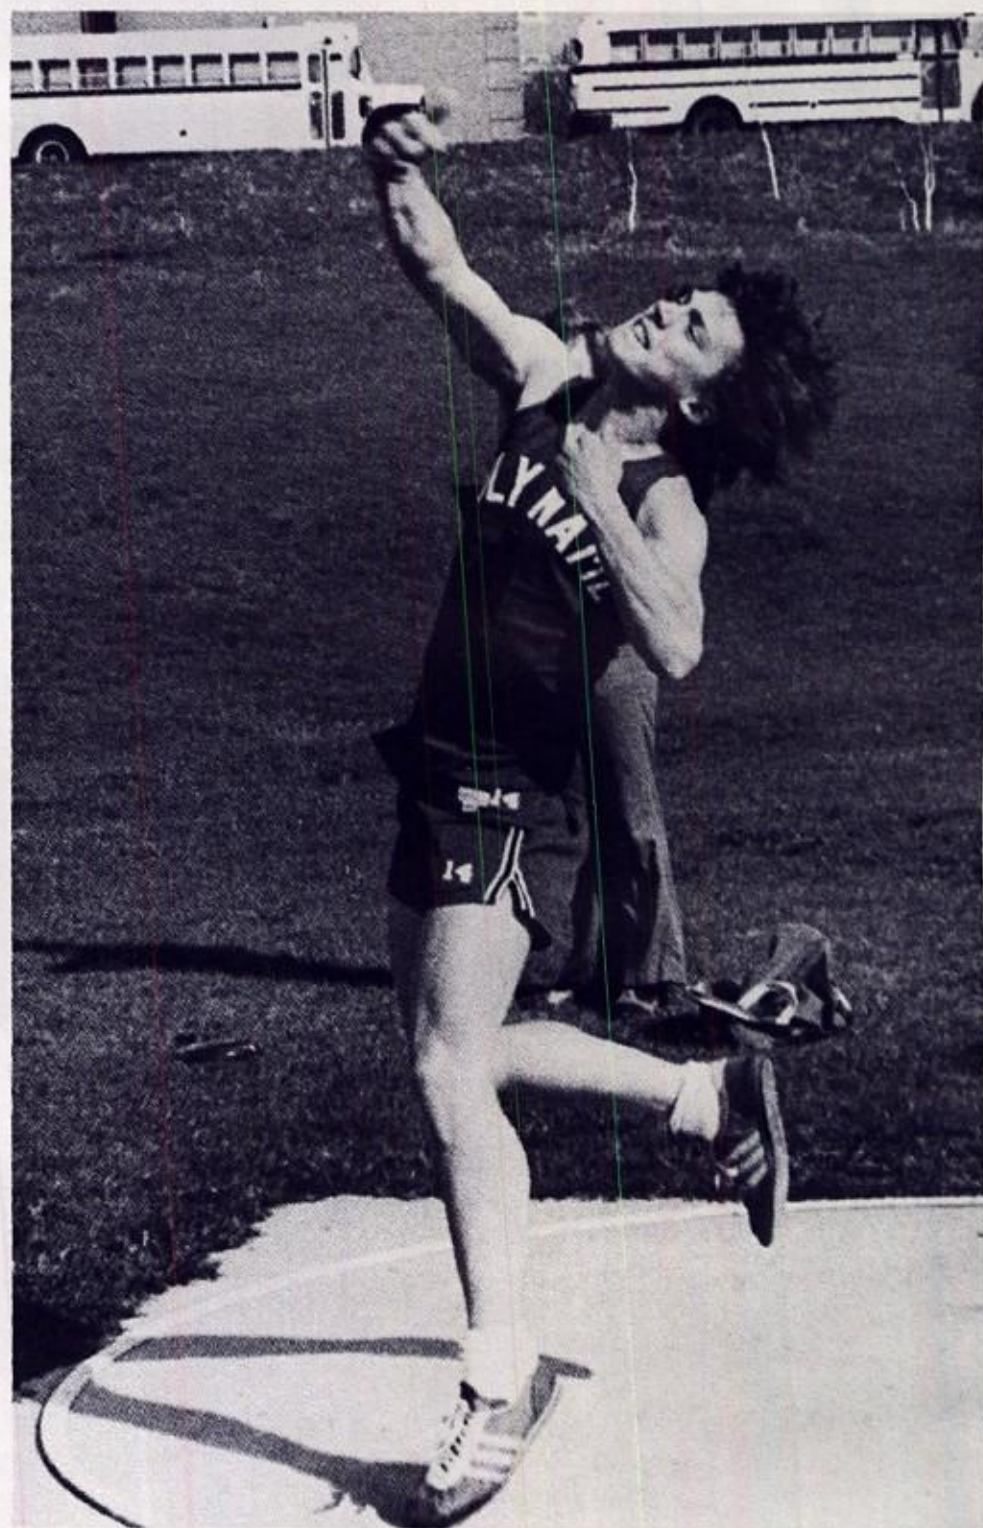

1976 marked several firsts for the Holy Name track team. For the first time, they succumbed to SLL opponents in a triangular meet, losing to both Blackhawk and Brodhead. However, the team humiliated Blackhawk at the conference meet, although class B Brodhead was out of reach.

Bob Kleifgen achieved another first at the state meet by capturing four first places and the Outstanding Performer award. He won the 100 in ten flat, a school record, the 220 in 22.6, the 440 in 51.8, and the long jump at 20'4". Holy Name finished third overall with forty-nine points.

Dave Debevec claims that the reason that he's so good throwing the discus is that when they were kids, he and Ron Wopat used to play catch with one.

Al Lemens moves out to the second lane to commence his passing maneuver.

Anchorman Frank Lenocho determinedly sets off to break the tape in the 880 relay.

Young Golfers Will Be Future Greats

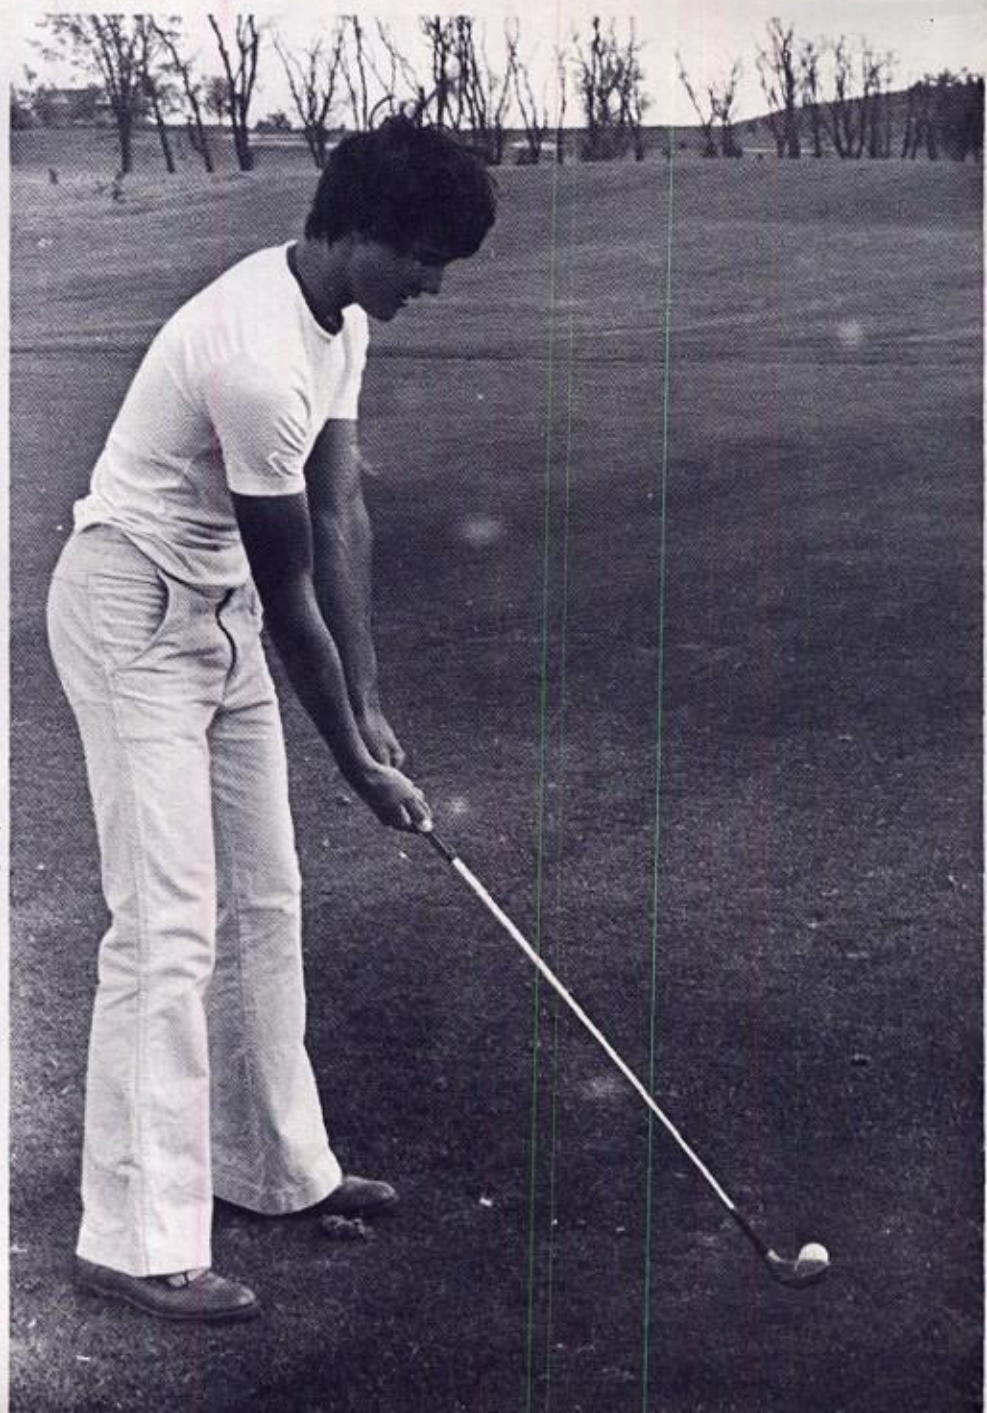

Decimated by the defections of seniors Kevin Kessler and Jim Schumacher, the golf team found quality golfers in short supply. Despite such a loss, the team won five dual and one triangular meet, as well as defeating the faculty. The team's finest moment came at Yahara, where they outstroked tough Brodhead by a sixteen stroke margin.

Captain Ron Lins and Jim Polglaze tied for medalist honors, both sporting a forty-three average. Ron won a nine hole playoff for the honor. With the entire varsity returning, Mr. Stamler's team should be one of the best in the history of the school.

Student Council Serves HN Community

1976 was the year of the Jim in the student council. President Jim Daniels, along with the executive board of Jim Schumacher, Jim Oehler, Jim Polglaze and Jim Cichock, ran a tightly budgeted, conservative council.

In addition to supporting the committees, yearbook and newspaper, the council obtained pinball machines for the pool room and sponsored a chili supper at the Homecoming gathering. The council organized the student-faculty dinners, and initiated a magazine drive to raise money. The council sponsored Ecology Day featured guided tours through the arboretum. Jim Oehler succeeds Jim Daniels as the new president of this fiscally solvent council.

Hilander, Yearbook, Tap Literary Talent

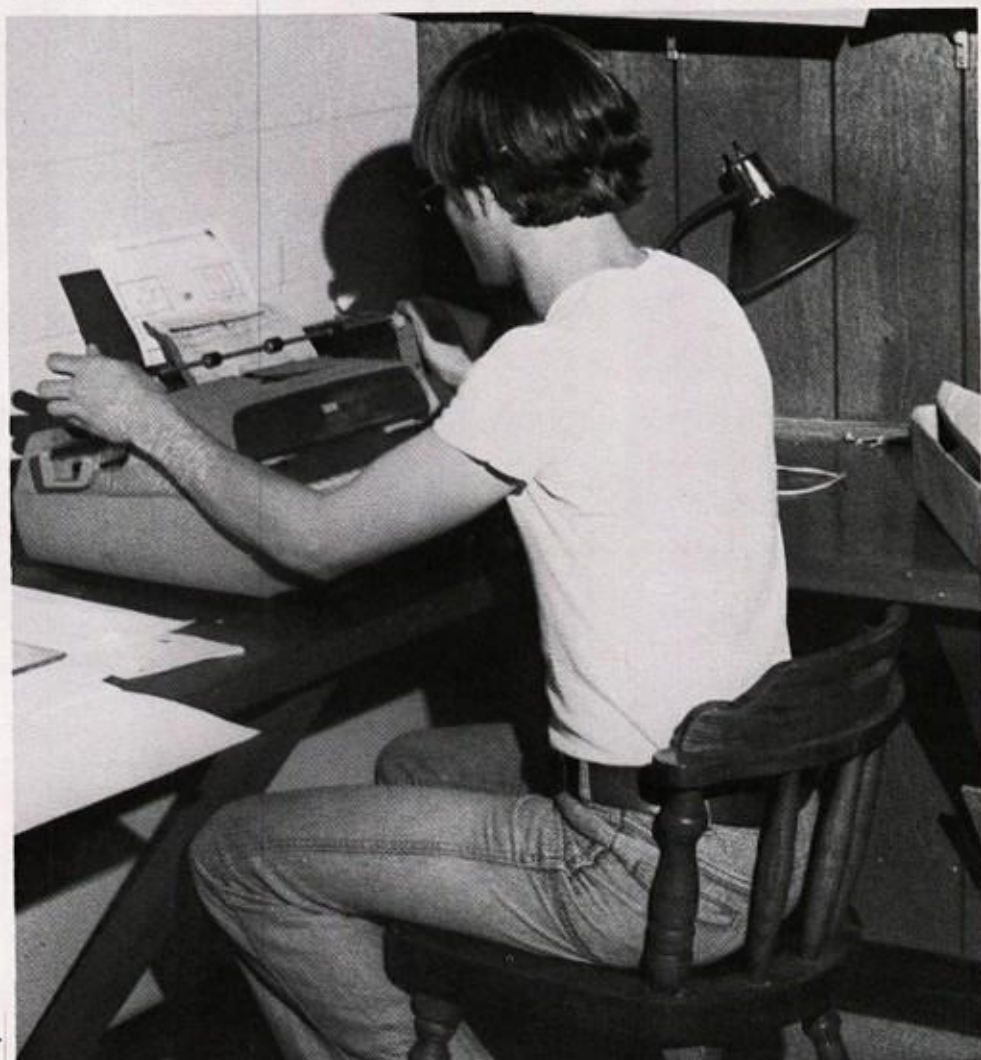

Despite one of the largest staffs in recent years, the Hilander, plagued by organizational difficulties, managed to produce only five issues through the year. However, many young writers were developed to provide a strong base for future years. In an attempt at better organization, two editors were appointed for the '76-'77 school year, which should result in more issues being produced.

The yearbook staff attempted to remain faithful to the architectural apothegm "form follows function" in producing the Encounter. Realizing that the function of a yearbook is primarily to record the events of a school for one year, the staff tried to highlight the happenings that made '75-'76 a unique period. Hopefully the form evolved as more than strictly utilitarian.

Tutors Bring Word of God to Retarded

Tutors from Holy Name and the west side of Madison donated a half day of their time twice a month in an effort to instruct retarded persons on the precepts of Christianity. Pat Sirianni and Dave Timmerman headed the Holy Name contingent of tutors while Fr. Seipp and Fr. O'Connell were the clerical overseers of the program, focusing on the day's lesson in their crystal clear sermons. The lessons focused on the sacraments and gener-Christian principles.

Curtailed Season Hinders HN Orators

Hampered by a maze of scheduling difficulties, forensics season barely got off the ground before it was over. The season consisted of one invitational, the Badger Invitational at Lake Geneva, and the three state sponsored meets. This abbreviated season was caused by schedule finaglings and the ice storm. Holy Name was unable to attend the SLL meet because of the March ice storm. In spite of this Jim Oehler and Kerry Finnegan survived all the preliminary meets and received A's at state. Ron Lins and Dave Fuccillo also made it to state, but received a B and a C, respectively.

Honors night provided a chance for all those who excelled scholastically during the year to be specially honored. This included forensics participants, band participants, National Honor Society, and members of the honor roll. The Outstanding Service Award was presented to Jim Daniels in gratitude for the four years of dedicated work he has put into the school.

Fine Performers Receive Accolades

The athletic banquet, serving to honor athletes and raise funds, was held on May seventh. Master of ceremonies Mr. John Reichert introduced the various coaches who presented the players to the audience and gave out most valuable player and captain awards. Mr. Burt Hable, head coach at West High School, was the featured speaker. During the course of his rambling talk he read a letter concerning how Holy Name football has contributed to the history of the United States.
